HALCYON 2003

Swarthmore College
Swarthmore, Pennsylvania 19081

A fresh start...

"I have just one word for you. Plastics."

Thus starts every fall on campus with traditions such as The Graduate.

Such uninspiring career advise is brightened by lunches outside the back door of Sharples, those smiling pass-fail faces, long afternoons spent on Parrish Beach,

the always riotous ML Halloween party, but most of all sharing old memories with friends and making new ones...

Snow Days...

SEVENTEEN FEET OF

SNOW!!!!!!!!!!!! Or so it seemed.

Some of us had classes cancelled, some did not. But we all felt like S.J. Entrikin (Class of 1895) trekking with the first expedition to the North Pole. Really, it was just Kohlberg for us. In between the snow we waltzed at the Valentine's Formal, humiliated ourselves at Screw, and eagerly awaited Spring Break....

Green Again

Green things and groundhogs peek out from underneath the snow like Swatties surfacing from McCabe basement. We rub our eyes and revel in the sunshine. There are only a few weeks until graduation, so we make the most of our time. Impromptu games of frisbee, chilling at Worthstock, studying for honors exams, and making it to the last spring event of all:

Green Bottle.

Student Life

One of the most appealing attributes of Swarthmore is its tight student community. Swatties live life to the fullest, and their passion for a wide variety of pursuits translates to an incredible amount of activity. Whether roasting marshmallows over an open candle flame, studying quietly at their desk, or dressing up for a party, Swatties live in a style all their own.

DANA/HALLOWELL

Dana and Hallowell, affectionately known as Danawell, are well known for their zig-zaging hallways and luxurious windows. Add a few Dana bugs into the mix, and you feel like you're living in the heart of the Crum. Danawell fosters a friendly rivalry between its constituents as seen by the hall themes of Dana 1st and its Hallowell counterpart. Walking through the halls you gain a sense of the people and the atmosphere that fondly call Danawell home. Unlike the party atmosphere of Willets or the calm life of Parrish, Danawell is unique in its balance between work and play.

MARY LYON

Known for its spectacular Halloween Party, Mary Lyon is one of Swarthmore's best-kept secrets. A beautiful dorm located only a short walk from campus, it offers countless opportunities to its inhabitants: delicious meals served in the breakfast room, zany hall life, and the opportunity to cozy up by the fire with those you hold dear. While ML residents may have found the walk from campus daunting this past winter, the newly renovated rooms awaiting them more than make up for the difficulty. With inhabitants that feel very much like family, Mary Lyon has a lot to offer those who grace her halls.

M E R T Z

A frisbee zips past your head as you make the walk across the field to Sharples only to find that the door is locked. After risking your life crossing a muddy field filled with numerous obstacles, Mertz makes you walk just a little farther to meet your goal. Mertz residents are all too familiar with these events, but they do not detract from one of Swat's most desired dorms on campus. Known for its spacious rooms and friendly atmosphere, Mertz fosters an enjoyable living space known for its first floor gatherings in the lounge to watch the latest television event. Be sure to watch for mattress-surfers as they make their way down the central staircase!

PALMER/PITT/ROBERTS

Located just a brief three-minute walk from the booming nightlife of downtown Swarthmore, the dorm complex of PPR provides a haven for those students wanting to feel miles away from campus while still being just a short seven-minute walk to Sharples. Though centrally located among all major attractions, PPR provides a quiet respite from the hustle and bustle of daily life. But when adventure strikes the weary student, one can always attempt to traverse the soccer field mudpits or venture down into the basements of Pitt and Palmer to see the graffiti and smell the odors of years gone by. Featuring tiled floors and hall life that could knock your socks off, PPR is the place for anyone seeking a secluded atmosphere for studying.

PARRISH

The view can be daunting as you stand at the base of the staircase and look upwards towards your destination. But fear not, there is light at the end of your climb. Parrish residents enjoy many luxuries that residents in other dorms may not experience. High ceilings and a view that looks out over campus appeal to most, but the best thing about living in Parrish is that you can just roll out of bed, throw on some clothes, and walk to your classes in two minutes or less. Without having to face the hill every morning, one can sleep a little later and still be fashionably late for class.

WHARTON

Visitors are often awed by the gorgeous exterior and charming courtyard; students sleep comfortably in recently-renovated rooms that occupy the perfect location on campus. With such notable attributes, it is not surprising that Wharton is frequently thought of as the best dorm on campus. When the weather is nice, courtyard picnics and sunbathing students are common; when the weather is cold, snowball fights abound. As Swat's premier dorm, Wharton presents a striking picture of students who know how to work and play.

WILLETS

I awake to see the sun glinting off the scattered beer cans in the room-like a thousand fallen stars. Outside my door, the sweet song of a 6 am fire alarm rings melodiously in my ears. A young woman, stretched angelically in the hall, searches not only for her purpose in life, but her socks. Maybe she hears the faint squish of my feet on the soggy carpet, or perchance she smells the fresh air from my room as it cuts through the stench of pizza, vomit, and the faded memories of the fortnight's adventures. She turns and our eyes meet; the only two souls awake to witness the majesty of Willets.

WORTH / LODGES

Fine Arts

One of the pillarstones of a liberal arts education is emphasis on and participation in the fine arts. From music to drama to the visual arts, Swarthmore students engage in numerous modes of artistic expression. Indeed the fine arts are an enlightening experience that can reveal worlds of emotion and revelation.

Drama at Swarthmore

Theater on campus takes form in a variety of ways. In a given year productions can range from large mainstage plays to far more intimate shorter pieces. For those interested in a low stress-low level commitment a drama board night of scenes is a great way to get involved while still fitting in with a busy Swarthmore schedule. Night of scenes first semester took place in the intimate Pierson-Hall theatre with the audience actually seated onstage. Pieces for the night of scenes range from the seriously dramatic to the utterly bizarre. Second semester productions include an adaptation from Corneille's The Illusion and an excerpt from the movie Fight Club. Drama board mainstage productions offer a bigger scale and more intensive experience. Making use of the LPAC stage to produce a full-length play (like An Ideal Husband) can require the added challenge of creating a full-size set and costumes as well as often making use of a larger cast.

For those interested in faculty supervision the Theatre department also offers fair in both small and large venues. Students taking the directing workshops create scene study pieces of their choosing and present their work three times in the Frear Ensemble Theatre. These pieces offer students a chance to focus on the artistic collaboration process without the stress of emphasis on production values. Senior theatre majors get a chance to show their stuff in the annual Senior Company production in which each major selects a role (either on or offstage) and together they use a semester to create a piece such as this year's Minneola Twins by Paula Vogel. Finally, each year the students of the advanced acting workshop put on a mainstage production directed by one of Swarthmore's own theatre faculty. This year's play, Brecht's Man is Man will be directed by Roger Babb.

Instrumental & Choral Music at Swarthmore

A Cappella Profile

This year could be called the year of CD mania for Swarthmore a cappella. At least three of the several groups operating on campus took on the major task of recording and producing an album this year. With its founders graduating in June, Sticks and Stones decided on a spring commemorative recording. Grapevine and Mixed Company each returned to the studio for the first time in a long time, hoping to begin a tradition of more-than-once-a-decade CD production. Frequent studio-dwellers Sixteen Feet, on the other hand, opted to visit France instead.

"Mixed Company's Flying Circus" rocked Lang Concert Hall in December, showcasing not only the prodigious comedy talents of MoCo, but the vocal stylings of Grapevine, Oscar and Emily, Sixteen Feet, Chaverim, Sticks and Stones, Cantatrix and Mixed Company itself. With the reformation of Essence of Soul as an added attraction, spring Jamboree looked to be an even bigger show.

In the end, everyone involved in a cappella at Swat can understand that, however shaky your pitch might be, however mushy your lyrics, however erratic your staggered breaths, there is always one constant at the end of the day: gossip...no, wait...friendship. It's cliché but true: give us a tiny, stinky Lang practice room and a late-night rehearsal slot, and we'll give you memories to last a lifetime.

Swarthmore students than the activities in which we partake?

Clubs and organizations make us who we are beyond the world of academia, offering us the opportunity to explore our artistic, athletic or cultural selves, expanding our minds and allowing us growth that cannot be offered in the monotony of a classroom...

"It is not so very important for a person to learn facts. For that he does not really need college. He can learn them from books. The value of an education in a liberal arts college is not the learning of many facts, but the training of the mind to think something that cannot be learned from textbooks."

I learned that the only way you are going to get anywhere in life is to work hard at it. Whether you're a musician, a writer, an athlete or a businessman, there is no getting around it. If you do, you'll win - if you don't, you won't.

"Being a member of Swarthmore's Mens' Basketball team has been an incredibly rewarding experience. Having the opportunity to play alongside such dedicated, team-oriented players and learning from such a knowledgeable coaching staff will be something that I will remember fondly. "My identity as an athlete is paramount...my most treasured memories of this college stem from my participation in athletics, whether it is the friends, teammates, coaches, or fans that I have met, trips that I have taken with my teams, or crucial games that we have won. But most importantly, I remember pushing through those tough times, those difficult workouts, where my team was my backbone. They taught me to trust, to use them for the extra support I needed. And this you cannot find in a classroom. This is only learned on the athletic field."

"I like that Swarthmore Athletics provide an opportunity for many people who ordinarily would not have the chance to play intercollegiately elsewhere. "Swarthmore swimming has given me the privilege of meeting wonderful, lifelong friends and a home away from the academic rigors of the school. It has made me exercise the competitive nature of the sport even though it is a member of Division III. We work hard in the water but still manage to keep it fun and this is what I was looking for coming into college." - David Whitehead '03

"My experience at Swarthmore would not have been half as enjoyable if I hadn't been a member of the women's basketball team. Being able to be part of such a successful and fun program helped to balance my life at Swarthmore between academics and recreation. I was very lucky to be able to play with 2 All-Americans and to be part of the team for its 4 most winning seasons in school history. Four conference playoff appearances, 1 conference championship, 1 appearance to the NCAA's, and 2 appearances in the ECAC's is nothing to scoff at! I will miss basketball very much, but the memories and accomplishments will stay with me for the rest of my life."

As you walk into the amphitheatre for this your graduation, you look around at your friends and classmates and quickly think back to all of the memories and hardships that have allowed you to get to this point. Freshman Orientation, lounging on Parrish Beach, all-nighters, and nites at Paces. During your first night at Swarthmore, you stood in this very same place. You lit a candle that represented your desire, your dreams. Take that flame that resides inside of you and go out and shine your light on all that you meet.

GRADUATION

If

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or, being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream - and not make dreams your master;
If you can think - and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with triumph and disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with wornout tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breath a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on";

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings - nor lose the common touch;
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you;
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run -
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And - which is more - you'll be a Man my son!
